

WEATHERBANK, INC.

Let WEATHERBANK keep you ahead of the storm.

WEATHERBANK, INC. is a 24/7 meteorological consulting company focusing on delivering accurate weather solutions to professionals in the insurance industry. Our detailed weather products and proprietary forecasts will prepare your company for all weather related claims, and will create higher operating efficiencies.

Our experience over several decades allows us to take what we have learned from past weather events and apply it to the future. With access to our accurate historical weather data, your claims staff will have the tools to verify events on the scale of 1 square kilometer. In addition, your personnel in catastrophic modeling will have the data to create better policy pricing tables, thus affording larger profits.

We also realize that short-term, weather events dramatically affect the productivity of your company. The concerns of high winds, regional flooding or the occurrence of hail in your client's asset areas are example elements of coverage that we can provide to your company; and our forecast accuracies are among the highest in the business.

With weather products generated from our in-house staff of meteorologists and sent directly to the right personnel, your company will be prepared for all weather-related impacts. Our various animated radars, including NEXRAD Doppler radar, will provide advance notice on any type amounts of precipitation, and its location. Our accurate watch and warning systems will contain the details of the threats and the specific areas affected. These products will enable your agents to position themselves out of harms way, but in a location that will serve your clients in a timelier manner.

And best of all, at WEATHERBANK, we have the flexibility to provide our products in any format that you require - and all of our products can be transmitted via HTTP, FTP, or XML, or through our private Satellite uplink.

With products and services from WEATHERBANK, you will always be ahead of the storm. We have been succeeding in this endeavor for more than 30 years.

Contact us, toll-free, at 1-800-687-3562 for a personal consultation. You are never under any obligation and a professional and courteous representative will assist you with the solutions and benefits that WEATHERBANK can provide to your company.
